Greetings to all!

Smiling faces and new homes were found for many treasures during our Summer Solstice Sale. Thanks to all who helped us make this annual event a great success. We now have room for all the new goodies we found at INATS (Int'l New Age Trade Show) in Denver, Co. We're receiving inventory already, so be sure and check out all the new arrivals in the store now.

We will be introducing new products in our Rock Depot throughout this year, starting with a new arrival of hundreds of cabs. Multiple sizes in mixed Copper minerals, Boulder Opal, Rhodocrosite, Lapis, Turquoise, Nuumite, Larimar, Amazonite, Tanzanite, Varasite, Lipidolite, Jaspers and various other colorful minerals are now available. Additionally, in this purchase we received a number of beautiful cut slabs, ready for making your own cabs. While in Denver we also attended the Int'l Bead and Jewelry show and brought back several varieties of drilled natural stone beads, minerals and natural point crystals to help create remarkable jewelry pieces.

I will be speaking twice in July, at the Metaphysical Fair July 16th & 17th and Body Mind and Spirit the following weekend at Palmer Auditorium. I will be talking about "Crystal Vibrations & How They Work for You." If you've ever attended one of my classes, you know that each one is very interactive and varies depending on the audience needs. So I hope to see everyone at both events.

Wishing everyone a fun-filled, sparkly 4th of July.

Many Blessings!
Karen Richards

July's Birthstone

Ruby

Natural Ruby is one of four "precious" gemstones (including Diamond, Emerald and Sapphire) owing to its rarity, monetary value, and hardness. Ruby is red corundum, an aluminum oxide mineral with a hardness of 9 out of 10 and second only to Diamonds. Trace amounts of chromium cause its rich, red color as opposed to Sapphire, which is also in the corundum family. The name, Ruby, comes from the Latin word rubeus, meaning "red." Until 1800 when Ruby was recognized as a variety of corundum, this gemstone was categorized as "carbuncle" alongside red spinels, tourmalines, and garnets.

In ancient India a legend goes that this stone was created before mankind for the sole purpose of being owned by man. It was believed to signify stimulation, heat, life and power. To this day, many wear or carry Ruby to overcome exhaustion and lethargy. It stimulates circulation and amplifies energy and vitality to the whole system. However, those who are highly sensitive or irritable may find this stone over-stimulating or uncomfortable to wear. Ruby has been known to calm hyperactivity in some individuals. It promotes a courageous attitude, and may increase one's success in controversies and disputes.

Learning the Language of the Crystalline Kingdom:

How to Read the Energy of Your Crystals and Identify Master & Special Quartz Formations.

Instructor: Adrienne Goff

Did you know that the crystalline kingdom is alive and sentient, and that it is possible to learn the language of crystals?

They can speak to us in many ways— through visions, colors, sounds, sensations, or even a direct download of information into your mind!

You can also gather a lot of information about the special properties of Quartz by simply observing their physical attributes and formations.

For instance, the specific geometries and shapes that form on a Quartz crystal all mean something and tell us how to best work with that crystal. In this eye-opening class,

Adrienne will share with you exactly how to tune into any crystal or stone in your collection and better understand its unique powers and energy transmission. Empowered with this information, you won't need to rely on your crystal books anymore!

The stones themselves will tell you everything you need to know.

Thursday, August 4th - 7-9 PM

Nature's Treasures Studio

Early Bird Discount:

$37 if paid by July 25th

After July 25th: $47

Adrienne Goff is an author, healer, and teacher with a specialty in the healing crystalline kingdom. Adrienne's books, Crystal Healing for the Whole Being and Becoming Crystal Clear, are required reading for anyone who is an aspiring crystal healer. Citrethyst

Ametrine is a rare gem variety of quartz named for its naturally occurring combination of purple AMETHYST with yellow CITRINE. These two color varieties are believed to occur together because of a process known as twinning by which two chemically distinct quartz crystals intergrow. The amethyst gets its color from Fe<sup>4+</sup>, while citrine is colored by Fe<sup>3+</sup>. Synthetic versions of ametrine can be made in a lab, but this process is considered difficult and costly. Heat treatment of amethyst to create citrine cannot generally produce ametrine because heating causes all purple hues to turn yellow.

Manifesting with the Nature Devas

We all need assistance manifesting our desires. We pray. We call upon the Celestial realms. We recite affirmations to shift consciousness. All of these are valuable resources, yet the old oaks in the front yard, a tiny creek along the roadside, the flowers and rocks silently await for us to enlist their divine help. Mother Earth has upon her breast many helpers if only you ask. Come to this playshop and learn how...

Four Crystals for Empaths and Sensitive Souls

Sugilite is a godsend for sensitives who are on their spiritual path due to its ability to protect, purify, awaken, and ground. It can come in various shades of purple, and some specimens contain spots of black, grey, or white. Sugilite is a shielding stone that forms an impermeable bubble of protection around you. Its protective quality keeps you safe from intrusive or disharmonious energy, negative emotions, and lower thought-forms from others or from your environment. It can also block psychic attack and prevent entity attachment. Sugilite brings in the violet flame of purification and helps you to transmute and dispel negative energy, patterns, and karma that might be affecting you-whether it originates from others or from yourself. Perhaps this is why Sugilite is commonly recommended for sensitive souls, children, or starseeds who have difficulty adjusting to the negativity that is prevalent on the Earth plane.

Sugilite

awakens the higher chakras and keeps your intuition sharply tuned, while also grounding and balancing you. Since it boosts the intuition, it helps empaths to navigate their surroundings and to avoid negative situations and people. It can also help empaths who do healing or metaphysical work to enhance their healing and psychic gifts. The presence of manganese, iron, and lithium gives Sugilite a calming, balancing, and grounding quality that is especially helpful for empaths. Being grounded and centered makes it easier to be aware of your own energy and to detect when you are being affected by outside influences.
